Republican Meeting Told Of Decision Of Delegates

MILLS NAMED AGAINST SMITH

Michigan Convention Opens Without Difficulty

(By The Associated Press) SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 28.—Democrats of New York state unanimously and for the fifth time nominated Alfred E. Smith, of New York city, for governor. The nomination was accompanied by a demonstration of tremendous enthusiasm.

SYRACUSE, Sept. 28.—Modification of the Volstead act and American adherence to the World Court were among the chief recommendations in the declaration of party principals adopted by the New York state democratic convention here today.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Ogden L. Mills, of New York city, was nominated as candidate for governor of New York state at the republican state convention today.

Delegates to the republican convention pledged to the support of Franklin W. Christman for United States senator, adopted a resolution in which they said: "In no way do we consider ourselves bound by the action of the convention in the nomination of the Honorable James W. Wadsworth, Jr."

The resolution was ordered sent to the convention. The resolution, it was said, accurately reflected the view of at least 82 and possibly 100 delegates spread over 17 up-state counties. Dry delegates from all the seven counties decided that instead of merely being recorded as not voting, they would demand that their votes be recorded against Senator Wadsworth.

Since 1914 Mr. Mills has been active in New York politics and at the last three sessions of Congress he has represented the 17th New York district in the lower house. He is a lawyer and is 46 years old. He served overseas with the rank of captain. He is a graduate of Harvard and the Harvard law school.

Seymour Lowman was nominated to succeed himself as lieutenant governor.

TROUBLE AVOIDED

DETROIT Sept. 28.—(AP)—The republican state convention opened today in seeming accord and harmony, apparently having no need for the 300 policemen and special guards stationed about the meeting place, to prevent a repetition of the rioting which split the Wayne county (Detroit) convention last week.

Mayor Fred W. Green, of Ionia, republican nominee for governor, who sat on the platform with his wife and daughter, received a roof-raising ovation.

Anticipated trouble at the doors, where policemen stopped all who failed to show the much-prized credentials for admittance, did not materialize.

Christian Meet Is Going Nicely

The evangelistic services being held at the first Christian church at Hartselle, by Dr. E. L. Shelnutt, are proving very successful. The campaign opened last Sunday and already a number have affiliated with the church. Rev. E. N. Anthony, pastor, is well pleased with the interest manifest in the meeting and urged that members and non-members of the church attend the regular evening services, each evening at 7:30 o'clock.

WIRE, SIGNED "ORMISTON," DENIES FEARS COURT ACTION

Stories Showing Attempt To Negotiate Immunity Without Foundation Telegram Asserts

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The Times says it received a telegram from Windsor, Ontario, Canada, signed by Kenneth G. Ormiston, former radio operator of Angelus temple, who is sought in connection with the Aimee Semple McPherson case.

The message said: "Stories published about me attempting to negotiate for immunity are without my authority. I have nothing to fear except a divorce action. If I ever need attorneys in Los Angeles, it will be McDonald and Thompson, law building. The whole thing is a huge plot which Keyes (district attorney) has either fallen for or is a party to."

At the Windsor telegraph office it was declared the telegram was left under the door with sufficient money to pay for its sending. The attorneys mentioned in the message, the paper says, declare they know nothing of Ormiston.

Ormiston, object of a nationwide search by officers, is charged jointly with Mrs. McPherson and five others with criminal conspiracy to obstruct justice in connection with the evangelist's disappearance.

TAX OFFICIALS GO ON ROUNDS OCT. 11

List Of Appointments Completed Here Tuesday

Tax Collector J. H. Hill and Tax Assessor H. O. Troup will begin their annual rounds of all precincts in Morgan county on October 11. Wolff's will be their first stop, after which they will visit all the remaining precincts of the county, winding up their work with a prolonged stay at the courthouse here.

The visit of the officials to every precinct is for the purpose of collecting the 1926 taxes and assessment of the 1927 taxes. The visits prove a great convenience to taxpayers of the various sections of the county, thereby saving them a trip to the courthouse.

ALABAMA RANKS IN HEALTH WORK

Foundation's Report Discusses Only Three States

Alabama now is ranking in the forefront of health work in the entire United States. Current reports of the Rockefeller Foundation, which devotes much time to study of health problems, discuss the health work in only three states in the entire union as being outstanding. These states are Ohio, North Carolina and Alabama. It is significant that the states discussed, two are Southern commonwealths.

Alabama ranks first in the percentage of population given organized health protection and second in organization of the health work itself.

Delite Theater Is Being Redecorated

The Delite theater, attractive Second avenue moving picture playhouse, is being entirely redecorated at considerable expense by the Crescent Amusement Company. The entire lobby will be one over. The old plastering was taken away and the new plastering will be decorated by a pictorial artist brought here for the purpose.

Four Carloads Of "Vets" Pass Here

Four carloads of Confederate Veterans, on their way to the Florence Reunion of Alabama Veterans being held today and Wednesday passed through the Decatur Union station today. Three carloads on the L and N. were transferred to the Southern railway with one car on the Southern. There were no decorations to designate the cars.

MORE THAN 15,000 FAMILIES WITHOUT HOMES IN FLORIDA

'Red Cross' Believes Refugees Exceed 47,000 Now

MIAMI AREA LEADS THE LIST

Tabulation Made Of Havoc Wrought By Hurricane

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 28.—(AP)—American Red Cross officials today estimated the number of homeless families in the storm-stricken area at 15,700. With a conservative average of three persons to a family, the number of needy refugees was believed to be in excess of 47,100.

The Greater Miami district, including Miami, Miami Beach, Hialeah, Coconut Grove and communities within the city limits, led the list with 5,000 families.

Fort Lauderdale and its environs rated second in the tabulation with 4,800 families and Hollywood, with its two suburbs, of Dania and Hallandale, reveal 3,000.

The tabulation also included: Okeechobee City section, 1,000 families; Pompano and Deerfield section 250; Broward county rural section, 200; Ojus section 900; Seminole Indians near Miami 50; and Homesteads and Southern Dade county 500.

Red Cross officials expressed the belief that between 3,000 and 3,500 other families, rendered without shelter, left the zone without reporting their losses.

Two Counties May Get Health Units

There is a strong possibility that the counties of DeKalb and Cullman soon may be added to those counties in which organized health work already is being done, it was stated here today by Dr. C. L. Murphree, director for North Alabama.

Auto Tags Will Be Ready Friday

Automobile tags will be ready for distribution on Friday, the date that the automobile license for the ensuing year is due. Officials at the probate court office today urged automobile owners to bring their certificates of title with them, when they make application for license.

In offering Mr. Brisbane's daily editorials The Albany-Decatur Daily does not necessarily concur with his opinions but offers them as the sentiments of the highest paid editorial writer in this country.

WHEN you fall from your glory as the British Cardinal and the French emperor discovered, it is a short story. So with the fall of Dempsey. Reporters that acclaimed him, and told just why Tunney could not win, say "Jack had one eye closed, and was crying with the other, as he lost his world championship."

THERE is a lesson, of course, Aim at some result that cannot be taken from you, a championship in the things worth while. No one will take away Edison's championship, or Henry Ford's.

NIGHT SCHOOL TO BE OPENED SOON BY Y. M. C. A. HERE

Secretary Randolph in An Announcement Tells Of Plans

COURSE OPEN TO EVERYONE

Applications Asked as Soon as Possible By Management

The Louisville and Nashville Y. M. C. A. here plans to extend its work to include the opening of a night school about the middle of October, it was announced today by C. J. Randolph, secretary of the institution.

The school will be taught by a competent faculty and will be open to anyone, by application to the Y. M. C. A. management.

The institution will be operated in co-operation with the federal, state and local boards of education and is expected to prove very popular with local people.

Secretary Randolph stated it was planned, at first, to teach courses in mechanical drawing, stop mathematics, blue print reading, etc.

Later other courses may be added as the need for them develops.

The school will be open two nights each week for 24 weeks and each session will continue two hours.

Secretary Randolph urged that those who may be interested in the school and its work may make application for admission as soon as possible in order that it may be determined how large the classes will be and the size of the faculty to be required to give the students the best possible instruction.

Applications Are In For City Positions

Some applications already have been received for municipal positions to be filled Monday evening by the new council in the City of Albany. The council will elect a city clerk, chief of police, three patrolmen, assistant city clerk, chief of the fire department and firemen, superintendent of streets and a city attorney. No indication has been given as to what the new council plans.

years ago, Nathan Hale was standing before a British firing squad and making his famous last remark, President Coolidge says every child should know by heart: "I regret that I have but one life to lose for my country."

Young gentlemen will note that Nathan Hale's championship is one that no Tunney could take from him. Many young men, unfortunately, are not interested in fame that pays no dividends.

FIFTY-THREE years ago, C. C. Roumage bought a seat on the New York stock exchange for $7,000. Now he sells it for $150,000, very nice profit. Had he invested his $7,000 in Standard Oil 53 years ago, accepting all the dividends and new stock offered, he would now have at least $100,000,000 without work.

Finger Cut By Razor, Barber Seriously Ill

Herman Hinz, well known local barber, is recovering, after having been seriously ill as result of an infected finger. Several days ago Mr. Hinz, while stropping a razor, accidentally cut the little finger on his left hand. The wound apparently healed nicely, but in some manner became infected and he has been confined to his home with high fever. His many friends will be glad to learn that he now seems to be on the road to recovery.

DR. MURPHREE IS ON HIS NEW JOB

Health Officer Will Direct Work In The Valley

Dr. C. L. Murphree, formerly health officer of Etowah county, but recently appointed director of the health work in the Tennessee Valley, has arrived here and today assumed his new duties.

Dr. Murphree will direct the health work in the counties of Lawrence, Colbert, Lauderdale, Limestone, Franklin, Morgan, Madison, Jackson, Marshall, Etowah, Walker and Calhoun. He will make his headquarters in the Twin Cities, which are nearest the geographical center of the territory he will serve.

"My work will consist principally of coordination of the health units," he said, "and attempting to build up a closer bond of co-operation between them and the state health department and the physicians of the territory."

Fire Prevention Week Is Pushed

Fire Chief W. H. Sorber is giving much attention to the observance of "Fire Prevention Week," which begins October 3 and continues through October 9. He plans to ask school authorities to devote special attention to impressing upon the minds of the younger generation the necessity for exercising care in handling anything inflammable.

Much Interest In Falkville Meeting

COMPLETE SKULL IS FOUND AT TRINIL IN CENTRAL JAVA

Gulf Is Now Bridged Between Man And Ape Family

LONDON SCIENCE NOW AROUSED

Speciman Must Be Kept In Dutch East India

BATAVIA, JAVA, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Professor Heberlin of the Netherlands government medical service has discovered at Trinil in central Java, a complete skull of the prehistoric ape-like creature, termed by some "the missing link" and by science "Pithecanthropus Erectus."

The skull was found at the same place where Professor Eugene Dubois of Amsterdam university discovered in 1892 the upper part of a skull two teeth and a thigh bone, from which was reconstructed the previously unknown ape-like human, designated as Pithecanthropus Erectus.

Professor Heberlin's specimen which is complete and sound will be kept in Dutch East India as the exportation of such relics is prohibited.

"Dr. Dubois' famous discovery was made on the left bank of the Bentawan river near Trinil. Much discussion followed, with many opposing Dr. Dubois' theory. The creature was not held to bridge the entire gulf between man and the apes, but some scientists argued that it constituted a further piece of evidence in that direction."

LONDON, Sept. 28.—(AP)—British anthropologists were thrilled today by the reports from Java of the finding a complete skull of Pithecanthropus Erectus. Sir Arthur Keith is cutting short a holiday to return to London in hope of getting more complete information regarding the find.

Miss Mildred Kildesale who has catalogued more than 6,000 skulls at the Royal College of Surgeons, believes that if the reported discovery is true, it is the most important of many years as complete skulls of prehistoric humans are exceedingly rare.

"A complete skull of Pithecanthropus Erectus," she said "would be most valuable for further research work as it would show the base that is lacking in most ancient skulls and which is very important for anthropologists in the investigations from which they make their deductions."

The nucleus of the skull collection catalogued by Miss Kildesale was formed by John Hunter, noted 18th century surgeon and anatomist, and is the pride of British scientists.

Day Travels Over The Moulton Road

John H. Day, who travels between these cities and Moulton, stated today that he is making the trip faster now than ever before. He is making the route via Red Hill. Three-quarters of a mile of rock has been placed on this end of the road and perhaps a mile on the Lawrence county end has been covered with stone. No asphaltic top has yet been placed. Mr. Day declared that the road is alright in dry weather, though rough. He estimated that the better part of a year will elapse before the road is completed and thrown open to travel.

GOVERNMENT HITS FORMER OFFICERS HARD BLOW TODAY

Daugherty Hearing Is Nearing Close At New York

TOLAND TELLS OF HIS SEARCH

Assistant Reveals He Traced Bonds To Point of Sale

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Five Liberty loan bonds, with a value of $40,000, that formed a part of the $391,000 "commission" paid John T. King for rushing a $7,000,000 claim through the alien property custodian's and attorney general's offices, were traced to Jesse W. Smith today in the Daugherty-Miller conspiracy case.

The name of Smith, described as Harry M. Daugherty's "Man Friday" has flitted through the 15 days of the trial. It first was mentioned when it was testified that Smith helped to acquaint Richard Merton, German metal magnate, with Thomas W. Miller, an assistant to Daugherty. Then it was shown that Smith got half of the $50,000 "retainer" Merton gave King.

Today Edward N. Toland, an assistant in the attorney general's office, told how he traced to Smith $40,000 of the bonds Merton gave to King. Smith had the bonds sold in 192 through the Washington brokerage firm of W. B. Hibbs.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The prosecution called its last and eightieth witness in the Daugherty-Miller conspiracy trial today.

Richard Merton, German metal magnate, who testified he paid John T. King, late Republican committeeman, $441,000 for the release of $7,000,000 empoinded enemy shares, was the last witness called. He also was the first.

Merton was recalled by the government to give the defense an opportunity to further cross-examine him before he sails for Germany tomorrow.

The eightieth witness, identified the 251st government exhibit. He was Emanuel Harris, New York attorney who gave testimony about the estate of King.

Thomas W. Miller, as alien property custodian and Harry M. Daugherty as attorney general are charged with conspiracy in connection with the payment to Merton, of the $7,000,000 shares of the American Metal Company which the United States had seized as enemy owned.

William S. Rand, counsel for Miller, brought from Merton a reiteration of his belief that the claims he presented on behalf of the Societe Suisse Pour Vallées De Metaux were valid.

The government had testimony to show that the claims were not valid. United States Attorney Buckner has maintained throughout the trial that he does not have to prove that the claims were false in order to show the alleged conspiracy attending their payments.

SAN FRANCISCO.—Fourteen year old Nathan Levy, all the way from Palestine, passed through San Francisco the other day en route for Los Angeles where he was to join his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Levy.

All he had with him was a big smile on his face, one suitcase and a dollar bill. He hadn't seen his father in thirteen years and he hadn't the faintest recollection of what Dad looked like.

Mrs. Levy came to this country three years ago to join her husband. Since that time they have made good in the poultry business and they sent Nathan enough money to come to Los Angeles.

But here's the reason for recording all this: The dollar that Nathan had was given him in Omaha.

When he passed through San Francisco he still had the identical bill, and the chances are he arrived with it in Los Angeles.

On both sides of the south corridor in the city prison here there are large mural paintings that reach from the floor to the ceiling. They have been there for years.

Among them are pictures of Grant's Tomb, the Washington Monument, Yosemite, Lonesome Pine and Old Homestead.

The name of the artist who painted these murals is unknown. In a corner of each of the paintings are the initials "T. B." but nobody knows who "T. B." was or is. Nobody even knew how the paintings got there.

The mystery, however, was cleared up somewhat the other day when up the elevator came a man with a cane, a goatee and an eight inch cigarette holder in his mouth. He asked if he could look around, especially in the south corridor.

He walked through the whole length, now and then taking off and putting on his eyeglasses as he studied the paintings. When he had finished with them he remarked:

"I did that work. It is the last of the sort I ever did. You may think it is pretty rotten and perhaps it is. But it was the making of me."

"Fact is that I used to get pinched once in a while and have to stay in jail for 30 days or so. The last time I was in Lieutenant Tom Tobin, now retired, gave me some brushes and paints and told me to do some decorating."

"When my time was up and the work completed I said to Tobin: 'I am through with the red wine.' He said, 'I hope so.' I never touched a drop from that day to this. You see that picture of a farmhouse? That is where I was raised. Well, everything looks natural around here. I guess I spent more time in this place than you have."

And before anybody could get his name he was gone.

Scopes Appeal To Be Decided Soon

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Judge Grafton Green, of Lebanon, was re-elected chief justice of the Tennessee state supreme court when that court convened here today. The election of an attorney general to take the place of General Frank M. Thompson, deceased, was postponed until Tuesday.

The appeal of John Thomas Scopes, Dayton teacher, who was convicted of violating the state law prohibiting teaching of the evolution theory in public schools, is expected to be decided at this term of the supreme court.

Scopes, at Dayton, was given the minimum fine of $100 under the evolution law.

Yost's Wolverines Favored To Cop Mid-West Football Honors For 1926

BY COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO.—"With all the sagacity and cunning of a Yost—" That's been a favorite phrase in midwestern football for many, many years and it looks as though it might be fairly well mounted again this fall.
In other words Michigan looms again as champion of the Big Ten conference.
Coach Fielding H. Yost's Wolverines with only three points scored against them last season, are regarded as the most likely team to cop mid-west honors, as the season gets started.
Captain Benny Friedman, heralded as the best passer in the conference and a hot rival of Oberlander of Dartmouth for national honors in that respect, will be in Yost's service again this fall and with him in the backfield will be "Bo" Molenda, fullback Molenda is returning this fall and will weigh better than 195 pounds.
Gilbert, Weber, Miller, Puckelwartz and others are also available for Yost's back garden.
Needs New Center
Michigan's great line of last season is gone and Yost must develop a center and two other linesmen as well as reserve ends.
A youth named Heston, a nephew of the famous Willie Heston, beloved of all who ever wore the Maize and Blue, is also a linesman candidate.
At Chicago Alonzo Stagg is smiling these days, despite the fact that the Maroons are not believed to be sitting in line for a sensational season. According to the early outlook Stagg has a fair line and backfield but his eleven is particularly weak at kicking.
Stagg is pleased with his end material. He has Apitz, reserve of last year, Freeman, Spence and Hoerger battling for the permanent berth.
At Iowa Coach Burton Ingwersen is sending 50 men through some long workouts. "Cowboy" Kutsch is back as the Iowa's star in the backfield and around him Ingwersen will attempt to build a winning eleven from largely green material.

Twenty-one letter men are drilling at Ohio State and the punting and passing game is being stressed.
A New "Red Grange"
"Frosty" Peters, a Montana youth, is looked upon at the University of Illinois as the new "Red" Grange, of the Orange and Blue. His early season playing is attracting wide attention. Warm weather has been slowing up the development of Coach Bob Zupke's new eleven.
Coach Little at Wisconsin has five squads at work. Rube Wagner, sophomore guard, is considered among Little's great finds of the season.
Dr. Spears at Minnesota has a flock of new, green material. More than seventy men are being drilled on the Gophers' field with particular attention given to the bringing out of new linesmen.
At Northwestern Captain "Moon" Baker and Vic Gustafson, rival backfield players, are attracting attention with sensational long runs, featuring the early season workouts. Chick Gandy, a former University of Alabama end, is also in the Purple limelight.

Amusements
Forrest Stanley, the handsome, but stern young leading man of the screen, has smiled at last! Girls have thrilled at the piercing glance that Mr. Stanley shoots out to the audience from between frowning brows. But now they have a chance to see him smiling and happy.
According to pre-view notice the miracle takes place in Columbia's Waldorf feature, "The Fate of a Flirt," which is due at the Princess theater Wednesday. Playing opposite Mr. Stanley is the lovely young star, Dorothy Revier. No wonder! If she put her arms around a wooden Indian and kissed it, the darn thing would probably not only smile, but jump for joy! So there's a reason and a god one for Mr. Stanley's new face.

CONFERENCE HELD
Members of the incoming Albany council, who take office on Monday evening, have been in informal conference to discuss their possible programs of work. The details of the conference were not made public.

Judge L. P. Troup, judge of probate of Morgan county, is slightly ill at his home on Jackson street. His early recovery is anticipated by his many friends.

LIMESTONE FAIR OPENS AT ATHENS
Greatest Fair In The History, Believe Promoters
By D. L. ROSENAU, Jr.
The Limestone County Fair Association will open here Wednesday, to continue for four days. The farmers and townspeople spent Monday bringing their various products in to compete for the prizes offered, which have been considerably increased in size and number this year. Race horses from nearby towns have been coming in large numbers, Secretary J. B. Sarver stating that the races this year will far eclipse those of the past.
The entertainment is being furnished by the Sheesley Greater Shows which were the central attraction at the Birmingham State Fair last year. Mrs. J. M. Sheesley being in charge. The Sheesley company came Sunday and were able to open Monday night, the grounds being packed. This carnival company came by special train and is said to have every form of entertainment and riding device known to showdom, the midway if placed end to end being over a quarter of a mile long, and approximately 350 persons being connected with the company. It is of particular interest to Alabamians to know that this company winters in Mobile.
The railroads are offering special round trip rates and quite a number from Southern Tennessee and Northern Alabama points are expected to attend.
Court In Session.
Circuit court entered into its second week Monday with the criminal docket set for the week.

ONLY GOOD IN 28 YEARS
For 28 long years W. H. White, of Minor Hill, Tenn., tried to find something or somebody who could relieve him of his suffering.

Cystone is based on the long-used prescription of a physician and can now be bought at all drug stores at $1.25.
County Demonstrator Hurt.
Fred Stewart, county agricultural demonstrator, was rather severely injured in an auto accident on the Fayetteville road about twelve miles from Athens late Monday afternoon. He was rushed to the hospital at Albany where it is said his condition is serious.

TODAY 12 Years Ago

From The Daily of September 28, 1914.

September 27, 1914, falling on Sunday, there was no issue of the Daily of that date. The Birmingham Barons, champions of the Southern League, were defeated here Saturday afternoon by the Y. M. C. A. team 5 to 4 in a thrilling 10-inning game. Wily, pitching for the "Y," held Birmingham to seven hits and fanned 13.

The Morgan county grand jury was convened today, Judge Wert charging, among other things, that the jury investigate the distribution of an unsigned circular during the recent election.

Miss Frances Darwin, of Sacramento, Calif., is the guest of Miss Sarah Davis.

Dr. and Mrs. Irwin and Miss Bettie Irwin have returned to Moulton after having been guests in the home of Judge Lowe.

Rayburn Neville, of Trinity, was in the Twin Cities today.

The Athens fair is open this week. It would be a neighborly thing for Albany-Decatur people to visit the Limestone county exhibition. Let's go.

The people still are lending an expectant ear to Colonel Graves regarding his plans to provide additional money for highway construction. The program must not be permitted to become lax nor confusing.

As the construction proceeds on the new Tennessee Valley bank home at the intersection of Vine and Bank streets, observers cannot help visualizing the big improvement to be made in the appearance of that busy corner.

"Two men will don gloves and meet in a ring in Philadelphia Thursday night," said The Albany-Decatur Daily the other day. "They will spend a few minutes flinging their fists at each other's head and the public will pay something over one million dollars for the privilege of watching them. Human nature continues to manifest its strangeness." On the contrary, it doesn't seem so strange after all. The public has always craved entertainment and preferably the kind with some blood and iron mixed in it. America isn't as blood-thirsty as the Spaniards and Mexicans who gather to witness helpless bulls tortured and killed. A prizefight is different, for the contestants are equally matched and there is little torture in it. One or the other usually goes out painlessly but fairly, and when he awakens he suffers little consequences. A million dollars for admission seems a bit high until we remember that the people of the United States are the most prosperous on earth, and they don't mind paying for their entertainment.—Dothan Eagle.

THE TWIN CITIES SHOULD SEEK TO GET A BIG LEAGUE TEAM TO TRAIN.

The Daily frequently has urged the people of Albany-Decatur to bestir themselves and persuade a major league baseball club to make the Twin Cities their spring training headquarters. Again this newspaper raises its voice in another plea.

The publicity which the Twin Cities would get from such a venture would be worth thousands of dollars to these cities; the attractive spring training baseball schedule which the team training here would require, would bring thousands of visitors to our cities as well as providing the local fans unusual baseball entertainment.

The climate of North Alabama is admirably fitted to spring training. Of course the team would experience some bad days. That would be expected and discounted in advance. Wherever a major league club might select a training point, it would expect to find weather conditions not always ideal.

The weather chart probably would show as little rain and cold days here as in any other point in the country, except possibly some parts of California and the extreme southern shore of Florida. There are several reasons why North Alabama would be an improvement on those sections.

Florida, especially as the boom continues there, costs more and offers more distractions for the players. Most of the better training centers in Florida have been taken.

Now is the time when big league clubs make their selections of training centers. Now is the time when Albany-Decatur should be busy with negotiations along this line. The Daily pleads with the local civic organizations to seek what may be accomplished along this line.

WILD ANIMALS NO LONGER AN EXPENSE IN WINTER QUARTERS.

Circuses may seem the same as they did some twenty years ago, but even the management of the tented attractions have been forced to meet the changing conditions of different periods.

A representative of a well known circus was here recently and was asked if the keeping of the numerous wild animals was not a very expensive undertaking, especially during the long winter months when they did nothing but eat.

"The time was when such was the case," he answered, "but not now. Instead of being a liability, the animals, including the domesticated ones, now are an asset."

He explained that a good many of the circuses now winter in Los Angeles, or some other point near a moving picture colony, and that the camera people found frequent use for the horses and other animals, the circus managements receiving high wage for their dumb charges.

Thus new conditions bring about new expenses, but they afford, as well, new means of making money.

HUNTSVILLE DAILY TIMES BEGINS MOVEMENT TO CONSTRUCT ROAD.

The Huntsville Daily Times has launched an effort to procure a hard-surfaced road between that city and Athens. In an editorial in a recent issue, The Times says:

Matt Phillips and other good friends agree with us that we should have a hard surfaced road out of Greater Huntsville to Athens and in time we are going to have it. Begin right now and build to that end. Development of public sentiment is a very important ingredient to the realization of just what you want and the way to get a thing is to get it. Good roads and bridges are secured just like anything else and it is passing strange to us that any well or fair thinking mind could fail to agree in this matter. By all means let's hard surface the pike from here to Athens, and see to it too that nothing short of such an enjoyment also blesses the pikes leading out of Greater Huntsville to Fayetteville, to Whitesburg, to Pulaski, to Gurley and Madison. In other words let's hard surface the trunk line highways of the county and at same time improve and bring up the lateral roads. It can be done, so let's do it!

The Daily wishes for The Times in this undertaking the greatest possible success. With the completion of the new highway bridge across the Tennessee river here, will come increased need for the closer connection, by road, of Athens, Huntsville and Albany-Decatur.

These three cities can do a great work, if they work together, for the building of this section of the Tennessee Valley. A good road connection between them would help materially.

The Times' suggestion also serve as reminders that there is real need for the functioning of the Tennessee Valley Road Association. That organization could do a great deal toward obtaining for the people of this section the Huntsville road and the numerous other arteries of travel which are so necessary for the continued progress of the Valley.

If The Daily can be of any assistance to Huntsville in obtaining early construction of the Athens-Huntsville road, it would be glad to be called on to render that assistance, for The Daily realizes that what helps one section of this Valley also helps the other sections.

NEW YORK WOULD BE FRIENDLY WITH THE REST OF AMERICA.

The fact that New York state, or at least the democratic voters of that state, would like to have an opportunity to vote for one of their own for president, the effort of New York to effect a friendlier intercourse with the rest of America occupies a position of more than passing interest.

The Age-Herald recently devoted considerable editorial space to a discussion of the subject and draws the conclusion that what New York needs to bring about a friendlier feeling is a "prolonged course in behavior."

New York would like to be to Americans what Paris is to the French people or Rome was to the Romans, but doesn't know exactly how the condition can be brought about.

The Age-Herald quotes a New Yorker, speaking at a banquet several years ago, as saying: "We know that the South and New England and the West are jealous of New York's superiority. We wish to efface that spirit of envy. How can the thing be done?"

The answer given the speaker was: "Your task is a big one. Geography is against you. New York occupies no such strategic situation as does Paris, or even as did Rome. Your major premise that other sections are jealous, or even envious, of New York's superiority is unfounded. They are neither envious nor jealous of New York's achievement. They're proud of it. What they do resent is the air of superiority affected by New Yorkers to the remaining portions of the country. The absurdity of this affectation is exposed by the reflection that almost all leaders in New York life came from New England or from up-state New York, or from the West, or from the South, when they do not come from foreign lands. What the country expects from New York is that New York meet it on the common ground of a common manhood, free alike of coddishness and snobbishness and determine its relationships accordingly."

It sometimes takes a great city a long time to realize that it has lost some of its popularity. New York, long since, ceased to be the idol of the nation. It is said, however, that a realization of one's shortcomings is the first step toward their correction, and The Daily suspects that this truism applies with equal force whether directed at cities or individuals.

It required many years for the democratic party to make up its mind to hold a convention in New York. Even then, the meeting fell far short of success, and there are many who contend that never again will the party meet within the confines of the nation's greatest municipality. Perhaps that determination has penetrated the thick municipal hide of New York and has been followed by a conviction that New York would fare better if the city was loved by its neighbors. If New York has so decided, surely it must be on the first step toward repentance.

nity. The man that bought the Roumage seat for $150,000 will very likely live to see it worth a million.

There are just so many seats, no more, in that Sinbad valley of diamonds, across the way from Morgan and Co. If the Roumage successor acts well his part, buying when the others sell, never going short on the U. S. A., he will easily earn 100 times the cost of his seat, or $15,000,000, which is considered a fair competence in New York.

THE Patriarch's ball was organized by old New Yorkers indignant because they could not compete with August Belmont's grand style of entertainment. By combining they could give as grand a ball as he could.

And that lavish young Jewish banker, married to the daughter of Commodore Perry, spent on his household, $80,000 a year, less than moderately rich men spend today on a garage and stable, and less than half the upkeep of a modest yacht.

PRESIDENT GREEN, of the American Federation of Labor, says that "firm labor" or labor organizations built up within great employing corporations and controlled by the corporations are a menace to harmony between employers and employees. They are certainly a threat against the whole labor union movement. But if employers are intelligent enough to realize that good wages pay good dividends, what can organized labor do?

Of late years men like Henry Ford and others that tolerate no unions in their plants have done more than any union to raise wages.

FLORIDA fruit growers lose 5,000,000 boxes of oranges are in 200,000 boxes of grapefruit, 5,000,000 boxes of oranges are included in official estimates of the loss.

Public relief contributions are praiseworthy, but insignificant in a loss that runs into hundreds of millions.

Could not the government establish an insurance fund to meet such emergencies and make that fund responsible, under careful management, for such mis-called acts of God?

WHEN Judge Gary took charge of United States Steel, he established a fund to do his own insuring, instead of paying out the money to insurance companies. He put into that fund what insurance would have cost and soon had thirty million dollars saved up for stockholders,

Meredith Collins Not In The Storm

Meredith Collins, former local resident, but recently in Florida, was not there during the storm, according to a letter received by his brother, Floyd Collins. Mr. Collins, a recent visitor here, left for Miami, but was delayed in Montgomery, in which city he was visiting when the storm hit the Sunshine state. Mr. Collins wrote that Mrs. Collins, who was in Miami at the time, also was safe.

after meeting fire losses.

The government might ask Judge Gary to establish a "calamity insurance fund" to take care of great disasters, floods, tornadoes, earthquakes.

California voters will pass upon a plan to exempt from taxation during the growing period, all lands newly planted with trees in a campaign of reforestation. The law should be approved in California, and copied in other states.

Vigilance would be necessary to prevent fraud and prevent carrying prospective oil and mineral lands free of taxes, but honest administration would take care of that.

DECATUR P. T. A. MEETS

The meeting of the Decatur Parent Teachers Association on Monday afternoon marked the opening of the 1926-1927 season. About fifty members were present to discuss plans for the year and much enthusiasm was manifested. The treasurer's report was very flattering.

It was announced that an open meeting would be held soon in the evening when the hospitality committee plan to entertain all of the patrons and friends of the school in order to solicit their interest in the association. Miss Tillman, chairman of the membership committee, reported that she was perfecting plans for a membership drive when she hoped to get 100 percent membership of the patrons. Plans for selling pencils and tablets to the school children after December 1st by the P. T. A. were formulated and turned over to the finance committee.

Mrs. Austelle, the president, requested suggestions for the betterment of the Association. Supt. Benson gave a very instructive talk in which he enumerated the causes which were especially deserving of the support of the P. T. A., namely, piano payments, library, athletic association and various items for the grammar school. These causes were endorsed at the close of his talk and the members will be allowed the privilege of signifying which of the causes their membership fee would go to. Mr. Benson then introduced the new teachers and a cordial welcome was extended them by the president.

In a very interesting manner, Mr. Jordan, principal of the High school, asked the co-operation of the members in the sale of athletic association membership tickets which, not only granted membership privileges but also admit the holder to the five football games that will be played on the campus this year.

The picture shows that will be shown in the auditorium each Friday night were endorsed by the association.

In the vote for pennant, the award was given to the Junior Fourth Grade taught by Miss Mau Smith.

CIRCLES MEET

With Mrs. L. W. Lee as hostess, circle one of the Missionary Society of the First Methodist church met at 3 p.m. on Monday. The devotions were given by Mrs. W. H. Ritter, using Acts 16-15. Miss Fella Richardson presented the 3rd and 4th chapters of "Moslem Women," the book which the circle is studying. The fourteen members present profited by this most interesting study. Prayer by Mrs. George Couch adjourned the meeting.

Circle two met with Mrs. D. D. McGehee at 4 p.m. with eleven members attending. Prayer opened the meeting after which the monthly Bible study was taken up with Mrs. N. R. Carrell as leader. She read the 8th chapter of the Gospel according to John. A general discussion was entered into by every member present. Prayer closed the meeting.

Mrs. J. C. White was hostess to circle three at four o'clock of the same afternoon when Mrs. Clyde Hendrix conducted the devotionals.

Mississippi Lady Says She Took Black-Draught for These Symptoms and Was "Greatly Relieved."

Starkville, Miss.—"I have been a user of Black-Draught for about twenty years," says Mrs. C. E. Buntin, of R. F. D. 5, this city.

"I used Black-Draught first for constipation," continues Mrs. Buntin. "I would feel dull, stupid, and have severe headaches, even feverish. I had an uneasy, tight feeling in my stomach."

"I read quite a bit about Black-Draught. I began using it and soon my bowels acted regularly and I was greatly relieved. I used it every once in a while for about eighteen years. About two years ago I found I was having indigestion, a tight smothering in my chest, then severe pain, especially after eating sweets. I commenced taking just a pinch of Black-Draught after meals and by doing this I could eat about anything."

"I gave Black-Draught to my children for colds and headaches. I can certainly recommend it."

Theodore's Black-Draught is recommended by thousands of others for the relief of indigestion, biliousness and simple ailments due to constipation. Safe, easy to take. Costs only 1 cent a dose. NC-171

Regulations For Cabs Discussed

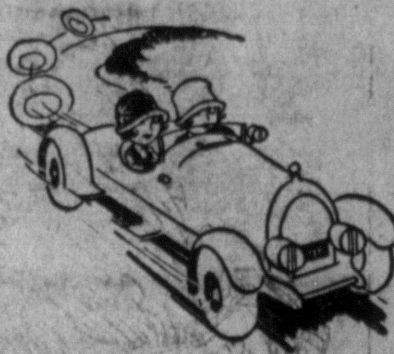

With new terms about to begin for municipal officers, talk of promulgating regulations for operation of taxi-cabs and bus lines here has been revived.

Much complaint is made against the practice of cabs in stopping in the middle of the streets for receipt and discharge of passengers. Some suggest that the cabs be required to draw to the curb. These same suggestions would give the cabs the right to draw to the curb at street intersections, blocking the sidewalks momentarily but allowing traffic in the streets to move without delay.

Albany-Decatur Scrimmage Today

Albany Hi and Decatur Hi will work out their problems together this afternoon over on the Decatur field, in their first scrimmage of the year. Coach Kirby has a likely looking backfield, but his line will probably be lighter than the Albany forward wall. Both teams go up against difficult foes this Friday and will probably take care this afternoon in seeing that none of the charges are injured to any extent.

A ST. LOUIS IDOL

World Series Dope Is Badly Split As League Champions Near Start

What's your guess on the world series? What chance has the Card pitching staff against the Yankee hitters? What effect will the first two games have on the Cardinals? What are the betting odds?

Typical questions of Albany-Decatur fans as the date for the first game of the world series nears? To answer those questions would be something that has never been done before—successfully.

However, we can all guess. In all the years past the champion who has been crowned for the first time in years, or the first time in the history of their bunting grabbing history, drives straight through to a world series victory. The Yanks did it, Reds did it, Senators were successful, then the Pirates. It has even been hat way—that places the odds on the Cardinals.

The Card pitching staff has an excellent chance against the Yankee corps of pounders for the reason that for the past three weeks the Yankees have been hitting the ball at a very low clip. Yankee hitters who have cast much fear into opposing hurlers have done less hitting that the Hitless Wonders, the old White Sox. They have been the prey for visiting hurlers, they have failed to hit.

Only in clinching the flag did the Yanks awaken in their hitting possibilities. Ruth hit three homers on the same day in a pair of games. At that the Yanks will enter the world series lacking in hitting confidence. It is not to be forgotten that they are facing some of the best ball chunking talent in both leagues. Hornsby can count on them, Shorrel and possibly Alexander, if the old fellow doesn't get louted from the very start.

Most men seem to overlook the fact that the Yankees have some little hurling staff themselves. Don't forget that there is Pennock, Shocker, Jones. That trio has done a great deal this year to keep the Yanks ahead of the Indians and they cannot be looked upon as international combat. The first two games at New York should go to the Yankees, by virtue of their weaklings in the hurling staff. The Yank pitching staff has held up the club since the Yanks went off their hitting spree.

The Cardinals are going to be at a disadvantage in playing the first two games on the Polo Grounds. The novelty of a world's series is something that is new to the majority of Card players, something that is likely to tell upon them as they enter their first feeling at home and through their lack of nervousness. The Yanks are a team of seasoned veterans who know how to take care of things when the championship of the world is hanging by a thread. The Cards will return to their home grounds for three games but even that will not be anything new for the Yanks. The Yanks are used to playing at the Card field for they have played there time after time in American league games, against George Sisler and his Browns.

All in all the odds seem to favor the Yankees, with the one exception of that point of historic outline—the club winning the flag for the first time goes through to the world series.

The betting odds? Well, that is a matter of individual choice, dependent upon the weather and its adaptability to good fishing.

Pels Are In Dallas For Fifth of Series

The New Orleans Pelicans today moved over to Dallas to play the fifth game of the Dixie "Little world series." Each team now has an even percentage of 500, the Pels having taken the first two and the Steers the last two. The third game of the series saw the Steers come from behind a long lead and win a verdict. The fourth brought the Steers victory in the first inning. The feature pitching assignment of the series thus far has gone to Lute Roy who hurled the Southern League champs to victory, allowing Dallas but one hit.

'Bama Passes Thru Here On Thursday

The Alabama football team will pass through here Thursday night, enroute to Nashville for the clash there Saturday between the Alabama and Vanderbilt football teams. The coaches plan a practice on the Vanderbilt field Friday. Alabama students will be trekking northward through here all day Friday and early Saturday.

"Mac" Says Tuck Is Going Nicely

Pryor "Mac" McRee says Floyd Tuck, latest Twin City addition to the Baby Tide, is going good in the daily workouts of the Crimson yearlings. McRee visited Tuscaloosa the other day and declared that Tuck is "going up against the varsity every afternoon." Tuck promises to be running with his old side kick, Raymond "Hot" Pepper in another year, Pep already having gone up to the varsity ranks.

Bowling Season Will Open Soon

The bowling season at the Y. M. C. A. will get underway at an early date. A meeting of the bowling council will be held next week, on a date to be announced later, at which time the officers will be elected and the handicaps established. Eight teams are expected to enter the winter bowling tournament this season.

Long Scrimmage Is Staged On Monday

A long scrimmage Monday afternoon reduced the Sunday yawns from the Albany High grid camp as the 23 candidates fought it out up and down the field in an effort to trample the hopes of each other. Coach Alford fussed a bit, placing Thombs, Papenburg, Stinson and Bishop in the first string backfield and showing Captain Perie into the second-string ranks. Perie snapped out of it quickly and did a majority of the tackling for the second line. The workout though long, left the men in the best of spirits and their minds steadily set upon St. Bernard next Friday afternoon at Cullman.

Falkville Hurt By Graduations

Falkville High lost her first battle of the season to Arab, 6-0, and Coach Garrison attributes the loss to a lack of weight on the part of his cohorts. Garrison declared yesterday afternoon, while here for a short time, that Falkville has been seriously hurt by graduation and has a particularly heavy schedule.

WELCOME WORDS— "HAVE A CAMEL"

Light a Camel and you taste that rare pleasure that only the choicest tobaccos can bring. Experienced smokers know it. That is why they prefer and demand Camels.

In all the history of smoking, no popularity has approached Camel's. Of all the brands in all the years, Camel reference towers above every other cigarette. Camel's favor is as big as its quality.

For the leadership of his famous cigarette grows out of goodness. Camels get the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos grown . . . perfect blending . . . the best of everything, regardless of price. The makers of Camel spend millions for quality . . . nothing is too good for Camels.

We invite you, if you have not yet met Camels, to prove their goodness for yourself. What welcome mildness and mellowness! They never tire the taste or leave a cigarette after-taste . . . "Have a Camel?"

A LACK OF CONSIDERATION

By RUSS WESTOVER

PARADISE

Love Goes Adventuring in—
by COSMO HAMILTON
Author of SCANDAL & the BLINDNESS of VIRTUE
Published by arrangement with First National Pictures

"Why do I take the trouble to answer this lofty summons," he asked himself as he went. But somehow blood was thicker than water, he supposed, with a shrug. As a matter of fact he would have given an ear or an eye to be on affectionate terms with his family, being a man of sentiment. And owned to it, to if Chrissie had asked him, though it would have had to be she.

"I should not have been able to get in touch with you now, if I hadn't seen you this morning—begging in the street."

"Hardly begging," said Tony, who was greatly amazed. "Didn't you think the sweet strains of our land were worthy of recompense?"

Lord Stirling obviously did not. From the movement of his eyebrows he considered, on the contrary, that there were always too many unnecessary noises in London. "What was your rank, may I ask?" He almost said "if any."

"Wing Commander, R. A. F."

"Oh."

"And yours?"

"Colonel, Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders."

In the quick exchange of looks there was a touch of mutual respect, somewhat grudging, on the part of the older and the blameless man.

"Can't you get anything better to do than the—the thing you're doing now?"

"I thought perhaps that the 'something to give you' in your brotherly note meant that you had settled that question."

Stirling missed the irony of this remark, and having warned a little to the once black sheep who now looked so healthy and confident and had held up the family reputation in the war, came out of his reserve a step or two.

"No," he said, "I'm sorry I have nothing to give. In fact, the present ghastly taxation has made it necessary for me to get out of Stirling Castle and live in the agent's cottage, where my wife is her own cook."

"Like mine," said Tony, "and a pretty good one too."

"I'm in London in the endeavour to let the Castle so that I can send my second boy to Oxford. My oldest boy was killed, you know."

"I didn't know," said Tony. "I deeply regret to hear that."

That was a short uncomfortable silence, during which Lord Stirling, in order to hide his emotions, bent over the despatch case, opened it and took out a large envelope, heavily sealed.

"Well," he said, "here's the letter from father."

Tony noticed that, this time, he didn't say any father and was glad.

Poor old Alexander. The was had hit him hard. An estimable Stirling had gone down in the winnowing of England's youth. "Hard luck!" He took the mysterious letter, and as he did so and read his name on the envelope, in the well-remembered handwriting of the unbending man he had no queer feeling ran through his arms to his heart. The last well-deserved words that he had heard from his father had been, "Get out, you blackguard, and never come near me again." And now he was dead. It was too late to let him see all the ribbons that the blackguard had won.

Lord Stirling made it clear that there was nothing more to do or say by looking at his watch. Whereupon, never expecting to see him again, he thought like as thick as water, Tony put on his hat, clicked heels and saluted.

"Good-bye," he said.

"Good-bye," replied his brother. That was all.

"How do you do?" said Tony, and turned to find his brother looked every day of his forty-eight.

The doorkeeper of the Metropole, who wore his uniform and medals with a G. O. H. air, almost said "Hello, Tony" as the familiar box-rattler darted up the steps. He grinned and saluted instead. But one of the clerks, in the inevitable tail coat and buttonhole, whirled round at the sight of his old commander and clapped him on the back. "Thought transference, old lad," he said. "We want a handsome person with diplomatic manners to drive a Daimler for our guests. I thought of you this morning. Fairly good pay and tips. Americans are generous. Care to take it on?"

"Thanks most awfully," said Tony. "On my way out, I'll look in at the office and discuss the pros and cons. I have to go up and see my brother. He has something to give me—probably in the nature of a nasty kick in the mouth. Here's hoping," and, laughing, he went across the crowded foyer to the desk. "To see the Earl of Stirling," he sang out, and gave his name.

Formalities over, he left the elevator on the second floor, found the room and knocked. The valet opened the door.

"His Lordship will see you in a moment, sir."

Left alone in that large and obvious hotel sitting room, Tony looked about him with keen interest and curiosity. He knew his brother's overdone simplicity, and was not therefore, surprised to find that the room was almost as uninviting as when it had been left by the hotel cleaning women. But for two or three books and papers on the table and a neat leather despatch case on the cushionless sofa, it might have been occupied by nothing but an aimless incompatible fly. Not because there were no flowers in the vases, and no photographs on the bare mantelpiece did Tony come to the conclusion that his brother was in London as a bachelor. In his memory there was an everlasting picture of this man's impersonal room in the old Scotch house. He was standing at the window, watching the earnest students of the drama who had formed a queue outside the pit of the Playhouse, when the door of the bedroom opened and he was given a flat "good morning" in a stranger's expressionless voice.

"How do you do?" he said, and turned to find that his brother looked every day of his forty-eight. Tall, heavy, with dry red hair turning white at the temples, an unbarbered moustache, thick eyebrows, a large freckled nose, a ruddy complexion and a clear chin, here was a man who might have been his father come to life again, as he remembered him, when he visited the surgery of the old house in Perthshire to say "don't do this and that." He had been a man of don'ts. Here was one to whom deer stalking, salmon fishing and game shooting were not mere delightful hobbies but the grim necessary business of life; one who was utterly without imagination, who couldn't carry a tune, be wrenched from the straight and narrow by a dimple, who could do without the sun. Every inch a modern Stirling in his Scotch homespun and broad-topped shoes.

"I have been endeavouring to find you for a couple of years," he said. "Since, in fact, my father's will was proved, and in going over his papers, I came across a letter addressed to you."

So the something was a letter. A kick in the mouth from the old man, then.

"Anything sent to the War Office or Cox's would have been forwarded," said Tony blandly.

"But, you see, I was not aware of the fact that you were in the Service."

"Where else was I likely to be, sir?"

It was a disconcerting question which was left unanswered. And there was a subtle touch of impertinence in the "sir." Young devil.

And having wound up the whole story to Chrissie with the joyful news of his engagement at the Metropole Hotel as a chauffeur, "a frightfully smart uniform, old thing," Tony brought the letter from his pocket and turned it over and over in his hand. "Somebody did, you see," he added. "Excellent wages, too, and tips. Good old Chrissie!"

Chrissie!

She had looked about the room with an expression of the deepest thankfulness. "Ah, then, we're safe again," she said.

"Safe? I should jolly well think so. I've got this job for life, if I care to keep it. No joy riding, of course. The most rigid exercise of mind over matter to keep well within speed limits. But whenever I'm tempted to let the old bus go after the air has gone to my head, I shall murmur the word Chrissie, think of this Ritz-like suit and lumber along in the timid manner of a father of a family."

She caught his exhilaration, his infectious laughter and indulged in a gasp in the middle of the room. It was marvellous, perfectly marvellous. Just think of having the luck among all the unemployed to step into a soft living like this on the very day the band died! By saving as much as she could out of the new salary—and tips—she would be able to make Tony more comfortable with a new carpet some day soon and buy those coloured prints of horses before which he always stopped to gaze.

And again Tony turned the letter over and over, examining the seal with its Stirling crest, following every firm stroke of the familiar hand. At school, at Oxford, that writing had always led to a bad ten minutes, a cold shudder, and a foolish act—the quick reaction of a total lack of sympathy, a huge misunderstanding. Well, he had been, of course, a pretty bad egg. Then, too, it must not be forgotten that he had been the accidental means of killing his mother and so the old man had had the right to nurse a grudge. He too, had known what it was to be in love.

ONE HUNDRED TEN HAVE OVER MILLION

Minnesota Finds It Self Rich In Hunt For Wealthiest

By International News Service
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—Minnesota has 110 millionaires, and of this number, thirty-five live in Minneapolis, the largest city in the state, according to reports made public by the internal revenue collector here. The survey also shows that Minnesota ranks as eighth among the states in millionaire population.

There are 23 millionaires in St. Paul and 19 in Duluth, the report continues.

Other figures made public show that there are 11,000 millionaires in the United States today.

New York has 2,800 while North Dakota is the only state with none. South Dakota has only one.

There is only one billionaire in the country.

One person in every 10,450 in the country has a million or more. Seventy-four persons pay $1,000,000 or more each in income taxes.

In 1914 there were only 44 millionaires to 1,000,000 of population while in 1926 there are 95 to every 1,000,000.

The increase in the number of millionaires is due to the wonderful prosperity of corporate business, the survey shows, and many war-made millionaires are being "squeezed out."

FAMOUS FRENCH RECIPES

BY ALICE LANGELIER

International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS.—"Salade Liegeoise" should be served warm.

Use young dandelions or curly chickory. Clean thoroughly and season slightly with salt and pepper. Put into a salad-bowl and border with potatoes cut into fine slices. These should be cooked with the skins in order to retain the flavor.

Cut good bacon into small dice and brown in a pan with a little lard. Pour into this a cupful of vinegar and then pour all over the salad.

Red cabbage may be substituted for the greens.

PARIS.—For a good French Apple Jam peel the best quality of apples, remove the cores and cut into small slices.

Use one-half pound of sugar for every pound of fruit.

Put the apples into a porcelain kettle in layers alternating with sugar and let simmer for 18 or 24 hours.

Cook until the sugar "strings."

This apple-jam is probably best flavored with vanilla.

Economic Conditions Free From Factors Indicating General Business Decline

Despite the fact that high levels of productive activity and of general prosperity have been consistently maintained for two years, and that during that time there have been elements in the situation that might have developed into positive adverse influences, economic conditions in general remain surprisingly free from the factors which ordinarily indicate the approach of a major decline in business levels, the Guaranty Trust Company of New York points out in the current issue of "The Guaranty Survey," which has just been published.

"Goods of all kinds are moving readily through the successive stages of distribution," the "Survey" continues. "Employment is large, and wages, instead of lagging behind the general price level, have advanced more rapidly than the cost of living, resulting in an unusually even distribution of purchasing power and of demand for the various classes of commodities. Consequently, both industrial activity and prices are well balanced."

"The position of the banks is distinctly strong, notwithstanding the steady increase during the last five months in loans against security collateral. Money rates remain moderate, although some seasonal stiffening has already appeared and more is expected in the course of coming weeks. The usual autumn expansion of credit demand for the transportation and marketing of crops and the financing of industrial and commercial expansion is the predominant factor in the money market at present, and will presumably remain so for the next two months."

"Conservative Business Policies. Except in the security markets, there is little evidence of speculation. Indeed, the course of commodity prices bears witness to the conservative buying policies of wholesale and retail dealers. In building and real estate, the speculative activity of a year ago appears to have subsided without entailing serious difficulties. A similar situation exists with respect to labor, strikes being few and serious shortages almost entirely absent, while the usual competitive bidding up of wages by employers to prohibitive levels has not yet appeared.

"Although the favorable features of the business situation are clearly in the ascendancy at the present time, the existence of potential weaknesses should not be ignored. Optimistic comment on the business outlook is too often based on rather vague references to the country's vast economic resources, population growth, productive capacity, purchasing power, industrial efficiency, and the like, as if these factors provided a complete and infallible assurance of uninterrupted prosperity. That they do virtually assure prosperity in the long run can scarcely be doubted; but the experience of the not distant past offers sufficient proof that this prosperity may be broken by periods of severe depression.

Potential Sources of Danger. "That the present volume of business appears to be based in an unusual degree on large and possibly abnormal activity in a few key industries has often been mentioned as a possible source of danger. The decline since a year ago in the average purchasing power per unit of agricultural commodities has tended to retard economic recovery on the farms, and emphasizes the fact that prosperity has not yet been fully restored in all the principal agricultural sections. The present distribution of the world's gold is clearly abnormal, and has contributed in some measure to a not wholly reassuring situation in our security markets. The redistribution of this gold and the commercial and financial readjustments which will be necessitated by the international debt payments and by the slow process of economic revival in Europe will inevitably impose great obstacles to the progress of trade here and abroad. Finally, it is likely that the installment-selling movement in this country has been abused or over-done in some cases, and that its adverse effects must eventually be faced.

"These considerations, however, by no means justify a pessimistic outlook. For the most part, they are based on conditions which have been present in the situation for some time and which are not at all likely to develop into active checks to business activity in the near future. Rather, they emphasize the need for a continuance of the caution and conservatism which business men have displayed in the midst of the unexampled prosperity of the last few years."

"The movement of stock prices has shown increasing irregularity in the last few weeks. While in some instances, vigorous advances have continued to occur and the whole list has exhibited considerable resistance under intermittent heavy pressure, the rapid and consistent upward trend of values observed in recent months is no longer in evidence. The somewhat higher money rates in prospect for several weeks to come may influence the market in some degree, although it is not probable that they will represent a controlling factor.

Commodity Prices Firmer

"Commodity prices, after reaching in August the lowest point for the last two years, have more recently displayed increased strength, but remain below the average for any other month since the autumn of 1914. The rather consistent downward movement of the price level since February, in the face of active trade and undoubted general prosperity, is one of the most interesting features of the business situation. Expanding commerce and rising commodity prices usually go hand-in-hand, while a declining price level ordinarily tends to restrict activity.

"The downward movement of prices is probably a result of large productive capacities and exceptionally efficient transportation facilities, and may be a result and at the same time a contributory cause of the conservatism of most business concerns in the matter of purchasing for future requirements. It is undoubtedly this latter factor which, combined with the vitality inherent in the present situation, accounts for the failure of the price decline to inhibit in any measurable degree the activity of business in general. When concerns at every stage of the distributive process are in a highly liquid condition as regards stocks of goods, inventory losses resulting from a gradual price recession cannot be great. As long, therefore, as the decline does not become sufficiently rapid to occasion undue hesitancy in the making of commitments, its influence may actually be wholesome rather than otherwise, since it tends to prevent

Final Plans For Store To Be Made

Final plans for the Kiwanis Country Store will be made at the Thursday meeting of the organization. The store will open on September 30. Already a good stock has been placed on the shelves and under the direction of Foster H. Pointer, manager, a lively business is expected. The proceeds will be used for the Kiwanis charity program.

BUYS RESIDENCE

Hodges Crow, of Cairo, Wolcott and Rankin, has sold a house on Fourth Avenue, West, to H. N. Purifoy, well known local resident. The consideration was not announced.

a curtailment of consumption, to discourage speculation and to limit the rate of credit expansion."

WHO FOOTS THE BILLS?

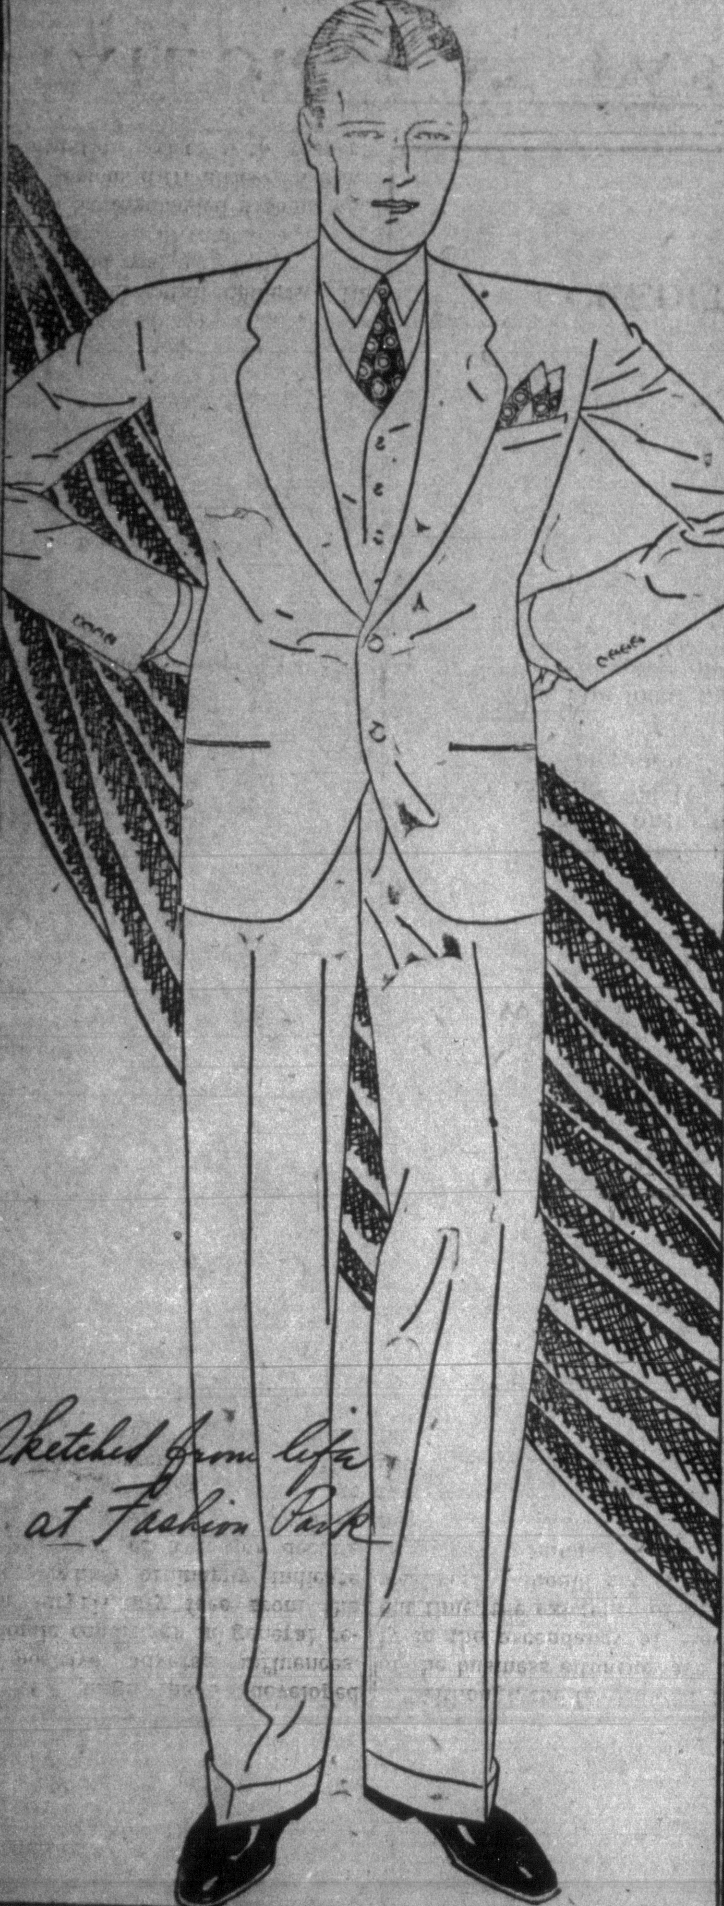

Who foots the bill for the numerous civic enterprises to raise money for the needy and for community development?

The local merchant! He asks no contributions in return. He asks only that you pay when due for what you buy from him, so he can make ends meet and have the money to help the next worthy cause that comes along.

Pay your bills promptly.
